Notes: The compatibility above is based on relationship satisfaction surveys as well as type compatibility.

Keep in mind, by its very name, this is meant to be a simplified chart for quick reference. Every relationship is unique. A good match on this chart doesn't necessarily mean a good match in real life, nor does a bad match mean an otherwise healthy relationship is doomed.

Do not rely solely on this chart for making decisions on existing relationships, whether romantic or in the workplace. If you want to better understand a particular relationship, I strongly recommend reading deeper on each of the two types before jumping to any conclusion. You can learn more about some of the types on the links below:

ENFPs are interested in emotions, they enjoy variety and new experiences. These traits are considered as more typical of women in our society. How does this affect the ENFP men dating?
